

RESOURCES

Many people are not receiving vital information about COVID treatment—which is understandable when the mainstream media has not been fully transparent about the pandemic from the start. For this reason, we want to ensure you have all the resources you need at your fingertips. This section will provide additional information related to COVID-specific telemedicine services, how to get help if you need it, and additional resources that challenge mainstream medical advice. May this information empower and enlighten you!

Dr. Fareed and Dr. Tyson are among a group of experts providing valuable help to stem the pandemic at a website for early COVID-19 care: <https://earlycovidcare.org/our-expert/>.

A volunteer group run by Mathew Crawford has grown to a few dozen active participants from around the world, and with a wide range of talents and professional backgrounds. They started building www.campfire.wiki to document pandemic events and research (since this cannot be expected to happen at Wikipedia).

They started a George Fareed article and dropped this video there:

COVID-SPECIFIC TELEMEDICINE SERVICES

Many telemedicine services have been created and expanded to vastly improve the availability of early COVID-19 treatment for Americans. This has been the result of conscientious and informed doctors wanting to help those suffering all over the U.S. and beyond in this pandemic. These websites focused on treatment and prevention using hydroxychloroquine, ivermectin, nutraceuticals, while using many different protocols, including Dr. Zelenko's, FLCC, the AFLDS, as well as our own plans for treatment and prophylaxis.

We resolved we were not going to allow our patients to go home alone, without treatment or understanding what this virus was and what to expect. Instead, we (along with other physicians from around the nation) grouped together and created telemedicine sites so people could call and receive the answers they deserved.

The sites below have seen tens of thousands of patients each month, because too many conventional offices and urgent cares across the country continued to operate as if there were no available outpatient treatments:
